

Sci-Fi Movie Remakes Done Right: The Crowdsourced Remake of RoboCop

Written by The Projectionist

Monday, 10 February 2014 17:10 - Last Updated Monday, 10 February 2014 17:23

Sure, there's an authorized remake of RoboCop premiering later this week, but can we be sure they didn't screw it up?

The remake we're presenting to you today is guaranteed to be screwed up, and we're not sure it should be any other way.

From Our RoboCop Remake :

Our RoboCop Remake is a crowd-sourced film project based on the 1987 Paul Verhoeven classic. Connected through various filmmaking channels (including Channel 101) we're 50 filmmakers (amateur and professional) from Los Angeles and New York who have split the original RoboCop into individual pieces and have remade the movie ourselves. Not necessarily a shot-for-shot remake, but a scene-for-scene retelling. As big fans of the original RoboCop, and as filmmakers and film fans admittedly rolling our eyes at the Hollywood remake machine, we've elected to do this remake thing our own way.

Our RoboCop Remake premiered in Los Angeles on January 26th and New York on February 5th. On February 6th, it was released online.

Sci-Fi Movie Remakes Done Right: The Crowdsourced Remake of RoboCop

Written by The Projectionist

Monday, 10 February 2014 17:10 - Last Updated Monday, 10 February 2014 17:23

Because if anyone is going to ruin RoboCop, it's us.

We haven't had a chance to watch the entire thing, but what we have watched has had us rolling on the floor.☹

We now present - "Our RoboCop Remake." well, not OUR RoboCop Remake, because we didn't do it. It was these other guys see, and we just found it on the Internet, and... Ah, screw it, I'd buy this for a dollar!

Our RoboCop Remake - \(Full Movie\) from DaveAOK on Vimeo .